that it shall be the duty of the enumerators, after being qualified, to visit personally each dwelling house in their subdivision, and each of a member thereof deemed most credi-ble and worthy of trust, or of such individusl living out of a family, to obtain each and every item of information and all the particulars required by the act. And in case no person shall be found at the usual place of abode of such family or individual living out of a family, competent to answer the in-quiries made in compliance with the requirethe enumerator to obtain the required infor-mation, as nearly as may be practicable, from the family or families, or person or per-

to house visitation they will ask at each house a number of questions. In the first place they want the Christian name and intial of each member of the family; whether the head of the family was a soldier, sallor or marine during the civil war, either Union or Confederate, or the widow of such a person; whether the person is white, black, mulatto, quadroon, cotaroot, Chinese, Japanese or Indian; the age at the nearest birthday; whether single, married, widowed, or divorced; mother of how many children and number living; the place of birth, place of birth of lather, of mother; the number of years resident in the United States, whether naturalized or naturalization papers taken out; profession, trade or occupation; months unemployed during the census year; months of attendance at school during the year; able to read, to write, to speak Euglish; whether suffering from scute or chronic disease; whether defective in mind, sight, hearing or speech, or whether orippled or maimed. There will be no publication, in connec tion with the names of the persons, of the information thus obtained. The facts will be used exclusively for statistical purposes

The compensation to be paid enumerators is fixed by section 11 of the act of March 1, 1889, and provides a minimum rate of two cents for each living inhabitant, two cents for each death, fifteen cents for each farm, twenty cents for each establishment of productive industry, and five cents for each surviving soldier, sailor or marine, enumerated and returned for all sub-divisions where such allowances shall be deemed sufficient.

ulation under the eleventh census will be compiled and the results made known early in August have impelled men of both par ties in Congress to begin to make figures and estimates of the membership of the House after the next apportionment of rep

The belief seems to be somewhat genera The belief seems to be somewhat general that the next House will be composed of 353 members—or, if Idaho and Wyoming be admitted this year, of 355 members. On that basis, and if the apportionment should be made by this Congress, the total number of electoral votes in 1892 would be either 437 or 443, and the successful candidate for President would have to ready a in the first east. ident would have to receive in the first case 219 votes or more, and in the second case 222 votes or more. On the basis of increase of population between 1870 and 1880, it is estimated that the total population according to the new census will be about 65,000,000, distributed as 'ollows: New England States, 4,500,000; middle States (New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia), 15,000,000, acceptable States including Kennylland 000,000; southern States, including Kentucky and Missouri, 22,000,000; western States, including Pacific States and States newly admitted or to be admitted, 23 500,-

If these estimates should be correct and the membership of the House should be increased as mentioned, the New England States prohably would lose one or two representatives; the middle States probably would gain one or two; the southern States would gain nine and the western States would gain fifteen. On the basis of 355 members, the New England States would have, say, 25 votes in the House and 37 electoral votes; the middle States 82 votes in the votes; the middle States 82 votes in the House and 94 electoral votes; the southern States would have 119 votes in the House and 145 electoral votes, and the western States would have 129 votes in the House and 167 electoral votes.

Wake Up.

If you wake up in the morning with a bitter or bad taste in your mouth, Languor, Dull Headache, Despondency, Constipation, take Simmons Liver Regulator. It corrects the bilious stomach, sweetens the breath and cleanses the furred tongue. Children as well as adults sometimes eat something that does not digest well, producing Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Restlessness, or Sleeplessness-a good dose of Regulator will give relief. So perfectly harmless is this remedy that it can be taken by the youngest infant or the most delicate person without injury, no matter what the condition of the system may be. It can do no harm if it does no good, but its reputation for 40 years proves it never fails in doing good.
